BOB FIELDS AND THE TEAM AT COMMCREATIVE

Entrepreneur. Volunteer. Husband. Father. Musician. Artist. Bob Fields has led a distinguished and colorful life in which he has worn many different hats. After a career in marketing at leading brands like Gillette and Foster Grant, Bob founded CommCreative, which has grown into one of the industry's leading B2B marketing agencies.

Bob has distinguished himself by applying his entrepreneurial spirit-and love of the arts-to community work. He founded the Community Kiln at the Brick Stack Arts Center in Framingham, a studio where everyone is welcome to come together to experience, learn about, and celebrate ceramic arts.

Over the years, Bob has dedicated his time to serving on several boards that reflect his various interests, including the Framingham State University Foundation, The Danforth Museum of Art, WICN Public Radio, and the MetroWest Chamber of Commerce.

JFS however, remains closest to his heart. Bob has been a board member since 2010 and during that time, he has played a significant role in JFS' mission to help strengthen the community through programs that offer support and comfort to seniors, immigrants, low income families and more.

Both as a board member and in harmony with his exceptionally talented and responsive team, Bob has embodied CommCreative's "THINK WITH YOUR HEART" philosophy and fueled impact with strategy and expertise that accelerates JFS' drive to advance social, health and educational equity in our community. Now retired, Bob continues to address community needs wherever he goes. He truly Thinks and Acts with his big heart every day.

MARC JACOBS

Marc Jacobs, MSW, LICSW, has been the Chief Executive Officer of JFS since 1996. His career exemplifies civic engagement, a moral compass unrelenting in addressing social and health inequities and building collaborative partnerships to have collective impact.

Marc held mid-level and senior staff and management positions in organizations serving youth and families at risk prior to joining JFS. He has led national training and curriculum projects; and is widely published in the areas of youth development, life skills education with adolescents and foster parent training. He holds Master's Degrees from Boston University School of Social Work and from Clark University.

Marc has received significant leadership awards. In November 2018, he was named Middlesex Savings Bank Foundation's 3rd Annual recipient of the John R. Heerwagen Award for Nonprofit Leadership. The award recognizes a strong, nonprofit leader whose work has significantly benefited the lives and wellbeing of residents within the Foundation's community.

In 2017, William James College awarded Marc its prestigious Mental Health Humanitarian Award for his social justice leadership. Also in 2017, The Joukowsky Family Foundation awarded its Sharp Rescuer Prize to Marc and his team for their tireless work supporting Syrian refugees in a large community wide project.

As Marc's hero and legendary civic leader Hubie Jones recently wrote, "You are truly a long distance runner for social justice".

THE THIRD JFS MAX MICHELSON HUMANITARIAN AWARD

Max Michelson
1924-2017

Jewish Family Service of Metrowest (JFS) is proud to award the third Max Michelson Humanitarian Award to Barbara and Samantha Shapiro – extraordinary individuals who transform kindness into action; leading lives of purpose that break down barriers, inspire change and build community.

Max Michelson was mentor, friend, teacher, guiding light to so many of us.

Max – Holocaust survivor, co-founder of JFS, community leader – provided wisdom and hope.

Max inspired each of us to be better, do better, never make excuses, always move forward.

He transformed a story of pain and torment into a commitment to justice, to ending suffering and to defending the powerless.

There is shared passion, decency, commitment to family, to community and authenticity exemplified by Barbara and Samantha in everything they do, and their strong convictions and unwavering humanitarian moral compass personify the ideals and values of Max Michelson.

Barbara and Samantha are deeply engaged in JFS's work with refugees and immigrants and as volunteers in the JFS Syrian Humanitarian Project, they tirelessly resettled Syrian refugees from war-torn parts of the world, welcoming them as family and helping them become integral members of the Metrowest community. With love, compassion and joy, Barbara and Samantha are a force for Tikkun Olam, embodying JFS' mission, to accelerate social, academic and health equity.

Today we pay tribute to the lessons taught by Max Michelson, and it is a privilege to honor Barbara and Samantha who, like our beloved Max - Act. Stand up for those powerless, those without a voice.

2020 JFS Max Michelson Humanitarian Awardees:

BARBARA AND SAMANTHA SHAPIRO

Barbara and Samantha Shapiro are committed to social justice. They both love children and helping others. And they are inspired when working side by side as a mother-daughter team. Their passions aligned in 2016 when they became a part of the JFS Syrian Refugee Humanitarian Project. With their family, they helped set up homes, shopped for baby gear, collected donations of clothes and winter gear and developed relationships with newcomer Syrian families. Barbara had the privilege to be at the airport to welcome most of the eight Syrian refugee families resettled by the program.

“They embraced the family as an extension of their own. They provided the kids with memories and experiences they will never forget – like going to the beach, seeing the Big Apple Circus, and going trick or treating – and they celebrated every important milestone with the family since they arrived – including Hayat’s birth! Rekanz thinks of Barbara as a second mom.”

—Lucia Panichella, JFS Senior Director, Programs and Partnerships

Barbara serves on the boards of Horizons for Homeless Children, Beaver Country Day School and formerly JFS of Metrowest and The Rashi School. Barbara plays a number of volunteer roles in the community and has been a classroom volunteer at Horizons for Homeless Children for over 11 years. In addition to remaining actively involved with some of the families welcomed by the JFS Syrian Refugee Humanitarian Project, Barbara is a trustee and involved in efforts led by her family’s foundation, The Shapiro Foundation, which is focused on global refugee causes and improving the lives of the world’s most vulnerable populations. Prior to retiring to become a full-time parent and community volunteer, Barbara had a career in marketing and advertising.

Samantha Shapiro is 18 years old and a senior at Beaver Country Day School. From a young age, Samantha has been exposed to social justice and has sought opportunities to make a difference. She volunteers at Family Table, packing and delivering groceries to those in need. In grade school, she collected school supplies to deliver to Yemin Orde Youth Village in Haifa, Israel. She visited refugee camps with her family in Lesbos, Greece. She is a summer camp counselor and babysits every chance she gets. And she spends as much time as she can visiting Syrian families and their children...and practicing her Arabic (which she takes in school)! Samantha plays hockey goalie and is captain of her tennis team. She is part of the Jewish Actors Workshop (JAWs) at Temple Beth Elohim in Wellesley and recently completed a short documentary about the journey of one Syrian refugee family. She will be attending Bates College in the fall.

Barbara and Samantha reside in Needham with husband/father Ed, and son/brother Joshua (when he’s not away at college). They are members of Temple Beth Elohim in Wellesley.

JFS of Metrowest

A message from JFS Board President David Milowe and CEO Lino Covarrubias

Seize the Dream celebrates exceptional, committed community members, professionals, and for the second time, an equally outstanding corporation---whose caring and action inspire others and change lives. At this particular time in history, we are honored to celebrate those who help JFS respond to individuals and families in need.

Barbara and Samantha Shapiro, Marc Jacobs, and Bob Fields with the CommCreative team have dramatically changed the lives of children and families locally and globally.

For decades, Bob Fields and CommCreative, now under the leadership of President Ashley DePaolo, have focused their efforts locally. They have created and sustained a culture where giving back and making positive impactful change in the community is as important as succeeding as one of the top marketing agencies in New England.

Marc Jacobs has been an outstanding leader focused on battling for the most vulnerable children and families. At JFS, he has created a culture of innovation, caring, and an inexhaustible, laser-focused mindset to never settle for mediocrity. He has taught us to always strive to provide the very best service to those in need.

For their leadership in resettling Syrian refugees from war-torn parts of the world, and helping them become integral members of the Metrowest community, Barbara and Samantha Shapiro are recipients of the third Max Michelson Humanitarian Award. Barbara and Samantha are the most caring and loving volunteers, and they have embraced these families as part of their own. They personify what it means to be engaged in Tikkun Olam, and as Max would always say “Act. Stand up for those powerless, those without a voice. Be embraced by a caring and protective community.”

Attacking inequity is at the forefront of all JFS efforts and impacts. With a deeply committed staff, dedicated board of directors, and fabulous volunteers, JFS challenges injustice, protects the most vulnerable, and works collaboratively with our partners to maximize our combined efforts for social good. Sound and effective organizations stand out during the most challenging of times. JFS is certainly standing out by finding creative and impactful ways to meet the continually growing needs in our community.

Stories, some very personal, are being shared tonight. We are proud to highlight the work accomplished on behalf of over 5,000 individuals.

Outcomes and impacts, with clear measures and strong data, are at the forefront of all JFS programs.

JFS is instrumental in significantly reducing poverty in the Jewish community.

JFS is instrumental in inventing new and vibrant models for harnessing the power of volunteers to transform lives.

JFS is instrumental in enabling elders to remain independent in the community.

Your involvement and generosity make impacts possible.

Our partnership with Combined Jewish Philanthropies (CJP) is deep and aligned. With CJP, and with partners from our amazing network of Jewish community organizations as well as with academic, healthcare, and other partners, we are leveraging and multiplying resources and results.

JFS continues to be awarded 4 Stars by Charity Navigator, with an unsurpassed score of 100 for the second year in row. JFS must always strive to exceed our own expectations of success and remain focused on helping the most vulnerable in our community. It is our calling and the reason why JFS exists.

Thank you for joining us on this journey.

Dear Friends,

CJP is proud and honored to be part of Jewish Family Service of Metrowest's Seize the Dream event and to congratulate the Max Michelson Humanitarian Award recipients and all honorees.

While we cannot join together in person, the spirit of our community is as strong as it has ever been. We stand with you, virtually, for this special night.

We value our partnership with JFS to help the most vulnerable in our community. Through JFS' work, families with young children, the elderly, people with special needs, refugees, and others can find the assistance they need to pay bills, purchase food and medicine, and live healthy, fulfilling lives in our community. This work has never been more critical. The needs here – and around the world – can seem overwhelming right now, but together we are making a positive difference for thousands. JFS is bringing hope to people in challenging times.

Max Michelson was a Holocaust survivor. He embodied hope, transforming his pain and his loss into a lifetime committed to social justice and helping people in need by founding JFS.

It is so fitting that Barbara and Samantha Shapiro, two people so deeply committed to social justice, are honored with an award bearing Max Michelson's name. They share his values and his determination to make the world better and to defend the powerless.

We extend our heartfelt congratulations to Marc Jacobs on his retirement to JFS. You have enriched Jewish life and helped so many in our community and beyond.

Finally, best wishes to Bob Fields and the staff at CommCreative for their outstanding contributions to seniors, immigrants, low-income families and others.

May you go from strength to strength.

Sincerely

I am honored to be recognized alongside Ashley DePaolo and the team at CommCreative. I am proud of our long-standing commitment to JFS and that this tradition will continue under Ashley's leadership as JFS is challenged like never before.

Congratulations to Marc Jacobs on a standout career. I have always been impressed by the level of leadership that Marc, Lino Covarrubias and the board have brought to JFS, and the succession of Lino as CEO ensures that the agency will be in good hands, year after year, even during the most difficult of times.

It is also an honor to stand with Barbara and Samantha Shapiro as they receive the Max Michelson Humanitarian Award. Compassion, determination and a commitment to social justice defined Max's life, and Barbara and Samantha - strong and selfless volunteers - inspire us to do what we can to serve this community, in our own way, to the best of our abilities.

And to JFS, we salute all the volunteers, team members and Board of directors for all they do.

The core values of what JFS contributes to the quality of life for those in need in our community cannot be accomplished without YOU!

With gratitude for your time and caring,

ROBERT FIELDS & LISA MCCARTHY

I write this tribute as we are Covid-19 quarantined and JFS is in the middle of supporting, problem-solving, providing comfort and aid to countless members of our community who are in harm's way.

It makes it an even greater privilege being honored by JFS with Bob Fields and the team at CommCreative, and with Barbara and Samantha Shapiro.

Bob, since my beginning days at JFS we have had countless conversations; I have admired your growth as a community leader and as a philanthropist. The bio speaks to what you have done, what I have been inspired by is your deep caring for those who face challenges and inequity. You get things done. Bob, with the entire CommCreative team, are fully engaged in improving lives, doing it without fanfare nor wanting recognition. With Ashley as Bob's successor, CommCreative continues as an important community leader.

Barbara and Samantha, I admire that you ever so quietly and humbly lead lives of purpose and joy; that you change lives in the most personal ways; and demonstrate that caring relationships and kindness transform lives and inspire others to become involved with you in these journeys. I am so proud to see you receive the Max Michelson Humanitarian Award.

From the very first Syrian refugee family arrival in 2016, Barbara and Samantha have been a spectacular Mom-Daughter Duo--- compassionate, caring and productive in supporting these young children and parents; working in tandem and also individually (especially since Samantha got her driver's license!). JFS is fortunate, as are other organizations where Barbara and/or Samantha have been involved.

Samantha (and her brother Josh) will be part of a next generation of community leaders. Our community's future is in good hands.

With great respect and regards,

MARC JACOBS & FAMILY

(Joanne, Sara, Alisa and grandson, baby Noah)

Thank you to JFS of Metrowest for the incredible honor of receiving the Max Michelson Humanitarian Award named for an inspirational man with a deep commitment to justice. We are humbled to be recognized for something that has become an integral part of our lives and to have the privilege to work with a remarkable organization that does so much for so many.

JFS provides innovative and impactful programs that support immigrants, families in need and older adults. And they treat people of all ages and backgrounds with dignity and compassion. When our family partnered with JFS to create the Syrian Refugee Humanitarian Project—and in a matter of months welcomed 8 Syrian families to Greater Boston—JFS seamlessly expanded their services and built a team that provided extensive volunteer training, English as a second language, translation services, social/emotional support, vocational assistance and so much more.

More recently, the world has faced an unprecedented health crisis that has had a deep impact on vulnerable communities. And of course JFS has adapted and expanded their programs in response to this desperate need in order to provide critical services to those they serve. We are continuously amazed and inspired by JFS and all that they do, and we are honored to play a role in these efforts.

We are especially proud to share this evening with Marc Jacobs and to celebrate his retirement after 24 years as CEO of JFS. Marc, your commitment to the community and unrelenting compassion and leadership have helped shape JFS into the impressive organization it is today.

Congratulations also to honoree Bob Fields and the team at CommCreative. Bob, your dedication to serving the community with your “think with your heart” philosophy and 10 years on the board of JFS have made an indelible impact.

With deepest gratitude to our family and friends for celebrating with us and for supporting JFS in continuing their mission. And to Ed and Joshua for being the best husband/father and son/brother and for always encouraging us and being by our sides.

Dear

Mom & Samantha,

We have seen you adopt a new family over the past three years. You both drop what you're doing, no matter what, and get to Framingham to be with the people you love most in this world (other than us!) and to help however you can.

We are so proud of you and so excited for the recognition of your amazing efforts AND the extraordinary ability we all have to impact others.

Every single day you remind us how to be better people.

We love you,

With great appreciation for your dedication to support the most vulnerable in our community

Marc

We began our work and became supporters of JFSMW at just about the same time as you began your long and productive career as CEO. We have shared decades of strengthening community and have been awed by your great accomplishments for our most vulnerable families both here and in Haifa.

Through you we see the magic that happens when the fit is just perfect. JFS Metrowest reflects your values in every way and you reflect the very heart of JFS Metrowest.

May you all go from strength to strength

Congratulations on an honor that is long overdue! You have left a stunning legacy at JFSMW, and I am grateful to have been one of many beneficiaries of your professional guidance and mentorship over the years, which continue to serve me well in my career and life.

The agency is thriving and able to meet whatever challenges come its way precisely because you cared so much about the well-being of the staff as well as the well-being of the community and the families served by JFS.

Enjoy your retirement knowing that the seeds you planted will bear much fruit in the years to come.

INTRODUCING THE JFS INNOVATION FUND

The JFS Board of Directors is proud to establish the JFS Innovation Fund to honor Marc Jacobs' retirement and his impact upon JFS and our community.

Two decades ago, Marc was the sole recipient of the CARLISLE Foundation's 2000 Creative Entrepreneur Award for demonstrated leadership, creativity, vision and selflessness. As Marc said back then, "that this award represents the collective body of my and JFS work and contribution to the community adds special value".

Encouraging and cultivating new ideas, incubating new approaches, collecting and analyzing data and demonstrating impacts, creating deep and vibrant partnerships, experimenting with different solutions to accelerate social, academic, and health equity are deeply embedded in the JFS culture.

To date, numerous initiatives have emerged, some successful, sustained long term or brought to larger scale, while others did not work but provided valuable lessons. Marc and JFS have received prestigious social justice leadership awards as a by-product of taking courageous paths where others stepped back.

Dreaming and imagining, with solid research and design will be at its forefront. JFS will have "test kitchens" encouraging a next generation of young leadership (both from within and from outside JFS) to bring their own creative and entrepreneurial spark to help build a kinder, stronger community and they will be encouraged and supported by seasoned mentors.

The JFS Innovation Fund will be a catalyst to ensuring continued experimentation and developing new solutions as needs change in our community, and in our society.

Jewish Family Service of Metrowest

Legacy Giving Program

The Jewish Family Service of Metrowest (JFS) Board of Directors endorsed the creation of JFS's Legacy Giving Program to meet the current demand for client services and to sustain the agency's ability to meet future demands.

The Legacy Giving Program, through the establishment of endowments, ensures that funds are available for JFS to:

- Meet future needs
- Maintain consistent program funding
- Expand financial resources
- Respond in the event of an emergency

To ensure that your interest in and support of JFS programs and services endure, please consider creating a named fund, establishing an endowment, and/or including JFS in your estate planning.

Together, we can maintain the agency's promise to the community to stand up for those left behind.
